TOWN HISTORIAN
Town of Stillwater
Stillwater, New York

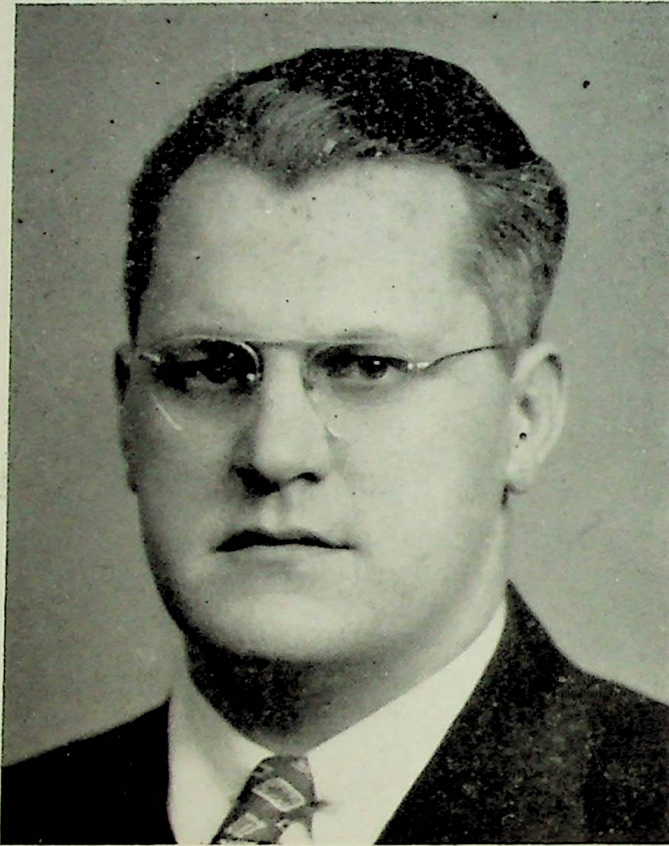

As many of you glance at the cover of this yearbook, you probably wonder what "Cahotatea" means or why we chose this unusual name. Since Indians were the very first residents of our town, we decided to give our yearbook an Indian name. We chose "Cahotatea" because it was the Indian name for the Hudson River to which we owe the early settlement and development of our town of Stillwater.

Co-editor

VICTORIA DEKAN

We, the seniors of 1951, dedicate our yearbook, the "Cahotatea", to Mr. Barringer who has aided us for the last four years through our financial difficulties and the many problems that confronted us. His guidance and influence have been a great factor in the success of our Washington-New York trip. We hope that through the "Cahotatea" he will remember us in the coming years when we are scattered here and there in our separate walks of life as we will remember him. We trust that the "Cahotatea" will mean as much to him as it does to us.

Principal's Address

June 25th of this year will be an important day in your lives. Many of you will immediately leave your community where you have been trained and sheltered by your parents, your church and your school.

There are many questions you might ask in taking a self-inventory at this time. Am I trustworthy? Do my colleagues have confidence in me? Am I willing to really work and earn what I get or will I shirk a responsibility given me and allow a fellow worker to do my work? Do I have the trait of being a habitual gossip and repeat things that I hear to others without any knowledge of the fact? Do I have and show the proper respect for my parents? Am I willing to accept my responsibilities and become a contributing citizen of this great country of ours?

Remember that the right to live in our democratic society must be earned. It is not a privilege. Our way of living can only continue to exist and function properly if you the graduates of 1951 do your part.

Bon Voyage to each of you — and please remember the good wishes of all of us in Stillwater Central School are forever with you.

Class Poem

Maybe you're one who didn't hear, but 21 Seniors graduate this year. And in case you don't know 'em, we'll introduce them in our class poem.

Daisy Baker's a wee country lass,
Who decided that Physics was just not her class.
She wanted to give up this subject, but she
Ended up with another one, Geometry.

Velma Bryan's our shy girl from over the river,
Crossing the bridge on cold mornings she really must shiver.
But she always seems to weather the storm,
We wonder if her love is keeping her warm.

James Butler's a boy who is both dark and tall.
He works very hard both in spring and in fall.
He develops a real build while pushing that plow.
His features and build should attract some young frau.

Dorine Camerato's a gay young girl.
Her romantic life keeps her all in a whirl.
In the not too near future, wedding bells may ring out.
That Tony's her one man there's really no doubt.

George Crandall comes from old Bemis Heights.
He's so tired, we think he must spend sleepless nights.
Whenever you want him, just search the land,
He can always be found at the first candy stand.

Victoria Dekan rates near the top,
She is one of the few girls who dared to take shop,
While there, she works hard making all kinds of noise.
She's bound and determined to show up those boys.

Jeanette Foy travels a lot, so we hear,
But she always seems to end up back here.
We are wondering what could cause this attraction.
Could Leonard LaBarge be the missing faction?

John Gleeson is from Crow Hill you know.
And that is why we call him "Crow".
He can generally be found with Gloria K.
He's the one crow that she can't scare away.

Earl Hurd never seems to have much to say.
In school he easily combines work and play.
Although he doesn't do much else at all.
He's a very good player in basketball.

Robert Jones is the life of the class it is said,
With his freckle specked face and curly head.
His future is waiting, its not appalling.
For our Bobby Jones, Freihofer is calling.

Gloria Komarony, another country girl,
Came here from New Jersey and put John in a whirl.
Her romantic life is any girl's dream.
She also has a knack for selling ice cream.

Robert Kussius is a handy man throughout the school.
In shop he learns every repairing rule.
Upstairs when anything goes on the blink
Bob is the first one of whom teachers think.

Lorraine Lowell spends her nights at home
Far from Park Avenue she does not roam:
We can't seem to make up our mind
Is Lorraine one of the roving kind?

In her business class, June McDermott's a whiz,
She can safely pass any test or quiz.
She acquired a job in a bank in Troy,
And also has caught that favorite boy.

Judith McLaughlin lives on a small island now,
But still manages to get to town somehow.
Her social life, isn't dulled a bit,
And with the fellows, she still makes a hit.

Robert Osgood has very good luck
At driving through town in his little truck,
Some say that are sure they have seen him speed,
But Murph's never caught him — no indeed.

Next comes Robert Poitras, whose praises we sing
For he's come to the top in just everything.
Our class President and King Football is he.
Whatever he does, the best he seems to be.

Ivar Read is next in line,
His etiquette and manners are really fine.
He gives our class it's cultured look,
He says it is done by reading a book.

Eugene Smith, our boy from up on the hill,
Is in there pitching and studying still.
After this year, we're pleased to relate,
He hopes to go on to Albany State.

Nancy Bell Velders comes last but not least,
And we hope to be present at her wedding feast.
She and Milton are doing quite fine.
We think a wedding may soon be in line.

We've had our fun and laughed and joked
As at the Seniors some fun we poked.
And here our "51" poem is ended,
Hope you enjoyed it, no offenses intended.

EUGENE SMITH

Class History

Twelve years ago we, the Seniors of 1951, were given our first glimpse of what the future years were to bring us. As most would think, this was not such a frightening experience. The first year was one of bewilderment, but gradually through the years, the wonder of that first year ceased to hold such charm. As our very first teacher, Miss Eulalia Fuller was most influential in forming the basis of our preliminary education and the various social associations of which we would someday participate.

The next five years of grade school were uneventful in any outstanding way. Then came the seventh grade and a considerable change. Under the guidance of our homeroom teacher, Mrs. Barringer, the former Mrs. Finch, we began working for that eventful day when the train would whiz us to faraway Washington, D. C. The next year under the supervision of Mr. Dalton we strove diligently for the right to take our place among the awe-inspiring high school group.

Mr. Barringer, whom we were to have for our first three years of high school and Mrs. Bender for our last year, were by far the most helpful advisors in our campaign to raise the necessary funds for our trip. Various dances, food sales, raffles, and numerous other activities topped the agenda.

The high school years brought out the sports ability of the masculine members of our class. Several girls had an opportunity to root for the team as cheerleaders.

The most important event of our Junior year was the sponsoring of a semi-formal Junior Prom held on April 21, 1950 with music by Tommy Rhode's orchestra.

Now at last the day has dawned and we begin a year full of unforgettable memories. A year which is to prove to be a stepping stone to our life's vocation. Somehow, this school year isn't just a day in, day out affair for our responsibilities and activities are many indeed. The New York-Washington trip will, of course, be the highlight of the year. It seems we are striving for the best in all the things which we undertake. Our efforts shall be rewarded when, at the completion of this year, we receive that diploma as we take leave of S C S on that final day.

Judith McLaughlin

Each ensuing year, as our school grows, we find that our athletics and our athletic plant must also correspondingly expand. Through the insight and interest of the Board of Education, Mr. Winans, our Superintendent, and Mr. Armlin, our Principal, this year has been one of the biggest toward the development and expansion of facilities.

Early last fall we dedicated our new football field. This is to be used for just football and although it is not completely finished is decidedly a step in the right direction.

The erection of the cage in the boy's locker room has greatly facilitated the storing of athletic equipment. The installation of new lockers has greatly enhanced the beauty of the locker room, reduced conjection, and has given us much more room. Our new bleachers in the gym, the telescopic type, of sturdy and rugged construction; gives us all greater seating capacity when in use and more actual floor space when closed.

The addition of new gym mats, the plastic covering of the old mats and the new gymnastic equipment has enabled us to have a much broader and sounder program.

This year a new intramural program was started and as a result a great many more students have found it possible to participate in all activities. The learning of new skills, rules of the game and practice heightened by competition has made this program a great success.

Our basketball squad this year, has been a great credit to our school. The great spirit of self-sacrifice and team play as displayed by every player has enabled the team to be once again in contention for the County League Championship.
