Your parents, school and church have educated and trained you to meet the challenge of the future. The yoke of greater responsibility is passing to your shoulders. This carries with it great opportunities for you to fashion for yourself a fruitful life and make it a vital part of the society in which you live.

I know with God's blessing each of you will attain much success and be a joy to all who have helped you in reaching your goal.

Sincerely,

Supervising Principal

As members of the graduating class of 1965 you are about to enter an adult society better equipped with knowledge to meet the challenges of a complex, demanding world than any of your predecessors.

It remains for you, however, to supply the energy, direction and pace to fully utilize your education-enhanced natural capabilities.

It is our hope that in your future you will continue to observe those ideals which have been instrumental in your developmental years; that you will constantly strive for more difficult attainments; that you will have the courage of well-founded convictions; that you will remember and appreciate the contributions of your parents and teachers; and that you will maintain and strengthen your religious faith.

My sincere best wishes for your consummate success in all your endeavors.

Arvid E. Dahlstrom,
Supervising Principal

Class of 1965

Class Prophecy

Here it is - the Alumni Banquet of the Class of 1965. Ten years have passed since we left the hallowed halls of Stillwater Central School behind.

As our main speaker, we are privileged to have our former Senior Class President, William Pettigrew, now President of the local branch of the General Electric Company.

Other classmates who have come to fame in the ten years since graduation are seated around the table. One is Dr. Robert Osmond, now chief of the staff at Albany Medical Center. Giving the invocation is the Reverend Gary D. Fredette, who just returned from missionary work in the Congo. Famed and prosperous American poetess, Darlene Moore, is discussing her latest book of poetry with Metropolitan opera soprano Barbara Ontkush, an old friend of ours. Also in show business is Colleen Conley, now a comedienne in many Florida supper clubs.

The show business bug seems to have bitten a number of our old classmates. Frank Bisnett and Bill Smith, billed as the "Tornado Two," are appearing summers at many swinging spots in Lake George. Our own Barbara Britt is also here with her husband, whose band was, a few years ago, America's answer to the Beatles.

Further down the table we recognize Dr. Bernard Luskin, now a practicing dentist in the area. He seems to be discussing his line of work with race car driver, Jim Farnan, who lost a few teeth in the recent Indianapolis 500. Dr. Luskin's assistant is dental hygienist, Sheila Barber, a graduate of Hudson Valley Community College. Seated next are Lieutenant Erik Smith and Sergeant John Kussius with their wives. They have made military life their careers.

Table-hopping, we come to Raymond Starks, now a prosperous retail salesman who gained his first experience selling magazines as a Senior. Paula LaBarge is now Mrs. Thomas Mehan, and seems to be enjoying wedded bliss, as do the former Donna Messoro and Tim Carney, who is a local high school coach. Also a coach is Richard Brown, who tells us his team is league champion in basketball this year.

The next lady we see is dressed entirely in black, and seems to have chosen the religious life. Can it be? Yes, it's Martha Church, never one of our quieter students. How times do change!

Our Miss Junior '64, Donna Barbolt, is relating to us her experiences at Albany Medical Center as supervising nurse of the operating room. Also now in the nursing field are Sherry Brown and Katy Retell, employed at the famed Mayo Clinic.

After Mr. Pettigrew has finally finished his last speech, we chat with Carol Wagoner, happy with her career in the WAVES. Next to her is seated Christie Wright, who, with her husband, runs a nation-wide chain of submarine sandwich stands. Henry Derby, just in from Australia, reports a great increase in profits from his kangaroo ranch.

Class Prophecy

Bill Lane and Paul Parker call us aside to tell us about their successful dude ranch, which they operate in the Adirondacks. Discussing business with them is Joe O'Kosky, now manager of Corcoran's Supply Company.

As we leave the dining room for the cocktail lounge, we run into Mike Mahar and Tom Monahan, who have recently started their own multi-story "Garage in the Sky" for shoppers in Albany.

Tom Allen appears around the corner with one of his attractive dance students. Tom owns a modern dance studio, also situated in Albany.

Also enjoying the party is Dan Gibeault, who has taken over and rebuilt Connor's Diner. He now charges a seventy-five cent cover charge!

Some of our alumni have traveled far to be with us tonight. Returning from New York City on a holiday is Diana Laisdell, now a retail buyer for Macy's. She informs us on the sly, however, that she does all her shopping at Gimbel's! Also up from New York is Kathy Marzinski, now editor of one of America's top style magazines. Sitting with them for coffee is Sharon Barbolt, now a top-flight airline stewardess. And yes, she's married to a pilot - none other than Mickey Rich, who has made his life's career in the clouds - where we always said he would.

Next we meet Terry Ford, who is now proprietor of two successful pizza shops in Troy and Albany. Discussing business with him are Tom Brundige and Dennis King, who have surprisingly joined the Mechanicville Police Department, and were the first officers in the Department's history to be picked up for speeding, curiously enough by State Trooper Ed Quackenbush.

Still on the right side of the law is James Kusick, now a lawyer practicing in Philadelphia. Marie Humphrey and Mary Lu Briggs join Jim in conversation, telling him how successful their partnership in a beauty shoppe has been.

Those who entered the teaching profession from our class are all in attendance. Jackie Clothier compares the behavior of her first-graders with the students of high school English teacher Ernest Placensia and Delhi College's drama coach, Georgeen Ingersoll. Also in the group is Cynthia Canary, a voice teacher in a local school.

Executive secretary Carol Peregrim tells us all about her recent visit to England, where she accompanied her boss on business. Jane Gage and Yvonne Crammond call us over to talk over old times, and we are surprised to hear that they are now running an exclusive flower shoppe in Schenectady. Two of their biggest customers, both holding executive positions with the Telephone Company, are playboys Robert Webster and John Whitman.

Also married is classmate Paulette Gibault, who flew in with her husband from their home in Texas. On the same plane, oddly enough, was John J. Bradley, who has been appointed by the government to begin a giant conservation project in the Southeast.

Class Prophecy

Bill Overocker has been employed as featured sports writer for some years by a tri-city newspaper. His brother, Bob Overocker, is now in the fight game, manager for famous wrestler, "Crazy Man" Bolton, whom we knew many years back as George Bolton.

As we go to the opposite side of the lounge we meet an old classmate, Mary Ellen Dupuis, who is now our town librarian. She tells us a new $100,000 library is planned for the town, which we hope is more truth than fiction.

Traveling from Chicago to be with us is Nancy Hartmann, who has realized her dream of being a social worker in "the big city." Next to her sits an old friend, Karen Burgess (the name by which we knew her). She is married now and has five children. Mary Pat D'Avignon calls us over to give us a tip on the stock market, as she is a stock broker for many of the area's more prominent citizens.

We soon recognize Michael Boucher, now a well-know radio personality. Record fans know him by his new name, though - "Boom Boom" Boucher. Discussing old times with him is Francis Charbonneau, a successful, rough 'n tough construction engineer in the Middle West.

At the door we are in time to say good-bye to Barry Baker, who has to leave early to check on his business - his own bakery, known as "Barry's Bakery."

Chatting with former student Beverly Scully, we learn she is secretary to our State Representative in Washington, D.C. Also employed in secretarial work and enjoying their positions are Janet Offenbacker and Mary Agnes McDonald.

Charlene Murphy (her maiden name) stops by to bid us adieu, explaining that she has already been gone much longer than she promised her baby sitter.

Patricia Niland, always known to us for her smile, is now author of a personal advice column in the daily papers, entitled "Dear Patty." I noticed quite a crowd of our alumni around Patty tonight. Included in the group is Cliff Marcellus, who has worked his way up to manager of the Stillwater Stocking Factory.

As the party begins to break up, we get a chance to see Linda Coons, an old friend with a new business. She runs the restaurant in which we held our reunion tonight. Dropping over to say a word is Teresa Marshall, top salesgirl at one of Troy's leading department stores.

Last to leave is confirmed bachelor Bob Morris, who loves his life in Florida teaching those who dare, how to surf and skindive.

The Class of 1965 has gone far in ten short years, and it has been fulfilling and eventful evening meeting with them again.

The Warriors took the field this fall with a strong veteran line and one of Stillwater's fastest backfields in many years. In hopes of a victorious season, despite a lack of reserves, the Warriors encountered their first foe not knowing what to expect. As a result of the fine blocking by the strong forward wall and the speed and blocking of the backs, the Warriors defeated North Adams, Mass., by a score of 35-0.

The following Saturday, eager for another victory, the Warriors traveled to Greenwich to face the powerful Witches. Outweighed and overpowered, the Warriors were handed a 25-0 defeat.

Against the Horses of Schuylerville, the Warriors scored a touchdown in the last quarter and were close to another when time ran out. Dropping their second straight, the Warriors left the field on the short end of a 13-7 score.

The Warriors traveled to Salem the next week to encounter a fired up and underrated team of Generals. The Generals led 6-0 until the waning moments of the game when Stillwater scored a touchdown to win 7-6.

On the following Saturday the Warriors played one of their finest games, at Fort Edward. They held the Forts to two touchdowns in one of the best defensive games of the year.

Another fine defensive game was played the following week at Stillwater as the Warriors gave the league champion, Hoosick Falls eleven, a real fight.

The next week Stillwater lost 18-0 to a strong and fast Cambridge team because of costly interceptions and fumbles.

Winding up the season the Warriors hosted St. Peters in a heartbreaker marred by fumbles, interceptions, and penalties which cost Stillwater the game.

Playing their last game for Stillwater were Seniors: Tim Carney, Terry Ford, Gary Fredette, Gene Griffen, Bill Lane, Bob Osmond, Paul Parker, Bill Pettigrew, and Ernie Plasencia.

As a step toward promoting our physical fitness program, our girls' physical education instructor, Miss Sarah Rich, has organized many girls' sports. Those girls participating in the sports - field hockey, softball, basketball, and track - join together in Girls' Athletic Association. Our four Senior girls, who have participated in these sports since their freshman year, have shown much enthusiasm and we are sure Miss Rich will regret losing them.
